Adelaide100[®] milestone

Norton Summit to Glenthorne National Park via the city and along the coast - now open

Adelaide100[®]

Need a new challenge? Try the Adelaide100[®] for size. The Adelaide100[®] is a new and destined to be iconic walking trail that loops the City of Adelaide via the coast, the waterways and the majestic hills face.

The Adelaide100[®] trail is now officially open from Norton Summit to Majors Road, near Glenthorne National Park-Ityamaitpinna Yarta. The sections traversing 70km/4 days via Morialta Conservation Park, the River Torrens / Karrawirra Parri, the city and the coast are marked and ready for walking.

Be one of the first to stretch your legs along a trail that experiences a variety of landscapes to give you some of the best vantage points around the city.

Visit www.adelaide100.com.au, download a map and go for a hike. Subscribe through links on the site to stay up to date with the latest developments as they occur.

Work on the remaining sections from Majors Road to Norton Summit are still under development. These sections take in Happy Valley Reservoir, Sturt Gorge Recreation Park, Belair National Park, and through the Adelaide Hills via Stirling and Basket Range back to Norton Summit.
